

DEMETRA

Dining room

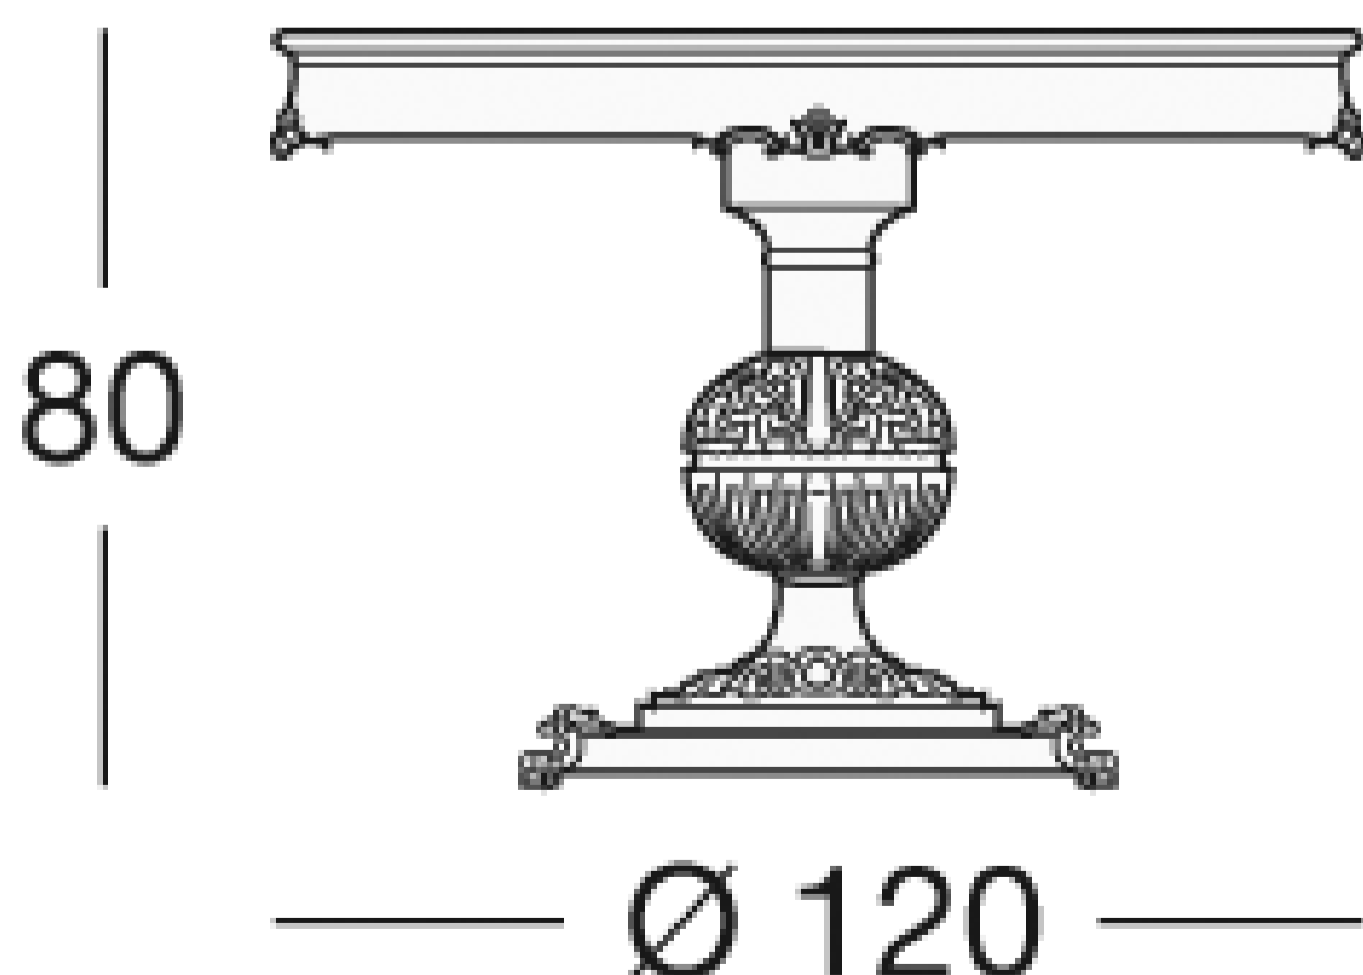

Three meters of rectangular table. Grandeur, grandeur, and majesty are adjectives fitting for the Demetra collection. From the divinity from which it takes its name, this set has in itself many references to nature such as the various leaves on the bases of the tables, the beautiful daisies in the corners of the chairs or even the long and harmonious leaves always present.

Tables

The three tables in the Demetra collection distinguish themselves, without any doubt, for the supporting legs made by columns with finely decorated with spherical structures in the centre. Whether the leg is one, as in the case of the round table, or more, the effect is certainly amazing. The shelves, decorated by hand by skilled painters, are then surmounted by crystals to measure.

Chairs

The chair and armchair of this collection are truly unique items in terms of creative study of details. Without wanting to weigh the figure too heavily, the carvings and friezes chosen are few, well balanced and obviously recall the most particular details of the tables to which they are matched.
